Section 2: how does your scheme meet the definition of self/custom build?
The Self-build and Custom Housebuilding Act 2015¹ defines what self-build and custom housebuilding is as follows:

(A1) In this Act “self-build and custom housebuilding” means the building or completion by—
(a) individuals,
(b) associations of individuals, or
(c) persons working with or for individuals or associations of individuals, of houses to be occupied as homes by those individuals.
(A2) But it does not include the building of a house on a plot acquired from a person who builds the house wholly or mainly to plans or specifications decided or offered by that person

The National Planning Policy Framework 2024 includes this definition with the glossary:

Self-build and custom-build housing: Housing built by an individual, a group of individuals, or persons working with or for them, to be occupied by that individual. Such housing can be either market or affordable housing. A legal definition, for the purpose of applying the Self-build and Custom Housebuilding Act 2015 (as amended), is contained in section 1(A1) and (A2) of that Act.

The Right to Build Task Force says:

In simple terms, this form of housebuilding can be described as a process where “a home is built to the plans or specifications decided by the occupant”. When considering whether a home is a self-build or custom build home, relevant authorities must be satisfied that the initial owner of the home will have primary input into its final design and layout.

Self-build typically involves the construction of single (usually detached) homes, including conversion projects and extensive renovations (usually demolition or rebuild). Where individuals work as a group or association, it can also include the construction of higher density homes in the form of terraced housing or apartments if those homes are commissioned or built by those individuals.

Custom build involves the construction of homes, of all types and sizes, on serviced multi-plot sites. With custom build, an enabling developer, which can be a local authority, community group, housing association or commercial developer, works with individuals or groups to specify the details of appearance and internal layouts of their homes. This may involve an element of DIY build or self-finish or can be full construction and finish of the home as specified by the home buyer.

A self-build home is one built to the plans or specifications of the occupant on a single plot.

A custom build home is built to the plans or specifications of the occupant on a multiplot site which is actively managed by a third-party enabler.

3. How does your scheme proposal meet the definition of self-build that is set out in the 2015 Act? In answering this question, please address the various parts of the definition and explain who will live in the dwelling and their involvement in the scheme.

Our scheme proposal meets the definition of self-build as set out in the Self-Build and Custom Housebuilding Act 2015, as outlined below:

1. Definition of Self-Build:
Under Section 1(A1) of the Act, self-build and custom housebuilding refers to the building or completion of a dwelling by individuals, associations of individuals, or persons working with or for them, where the individuals will occupy the home as their main residence.
2. Who Will Live in the Dwelling:
The proposed dwelling will be occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Johns who are the applicant's and intends to use the property as their primary residence. This ensures compliance with the Act's requirement that the home is built for owner-occupation rather than commercial sale.
3. Involvement in the Scheme:
The applicants are actively engaged in the project, including securing planning permission, arranging construction, and making key design decisions. While professional contractors may be involved in certain aspects of the build, the applicant's family retains full control over the process, ensuring that it remains a self-build project within the meaning of the Act.
4. Compliance with the Act:
 - o The development is being undertaken for the personal occupation of the applicant.
 - o The applicant is directly involved in commissioning and overseeing the construction.
 - o The project is not for speculative development or profit but is intended to provide a bespoke home for the applicant.

Given the above, the scheme fully aligns with the statutory definition of self-build as outlined in the 2015 Act.
